Fliers Lost In Arctic

Officer Lewis and Sergeant Terry Vanish During Bay Survey

OTTAWA, Feb. 20.—An aeroplane of the government's Hudson Strait expedition, piloted by Flying Officer A. Lewis, and carrying Flight Sergeant Terry, and one native, has been missing for the past three days, the department of national defence announced today.

The plane left Barrow on a patrol and observation trip at 11 o'clock on the morning of Feb. 17 and Officer Lewis reported at 5:15 p.m. that his position was unknown and that he was landing on the ice. That is the last information received on the plane, although search by dog team, along the coast, has been undertaken.

A plane has also searched the coast between Waken Bay and Cape Waken Bay, and a small boat has been sent to search for the plane. The Hudson Strait expedition, led by Commander A. Lewis, is the first of its kind, and it is believed that the plane has been lost in the ice. The plane was carrying a large amount of equipment, and the loss of the plane is a serious blow to the expedition.

There are now three planes at Barrow, under the command of Lewis. The Hudson Strait expedition is the first of its kind, and it is believed that the plane has been lost in the ice. The plane was carrying a large amount of equipment, and the loss of the plane is a serious blow to the expedition.

Edmonton Looks Good to the Outside World

When E. J. Cosford, assistant sales manager for the Studebaker Corporation for Canada, was in the city last week he said that nowhere in Canada were business indications better than in Edmonton and that the evidences of great prosperity were here in abundance.

When R. T. Kelley, advertising expert from Hamilton, Ontario, was in the city last week he predicted that Edmonton would become a great manufacturing as well as a distributing centre.

According to figures recently made public by the Canadian Manufacturers' association which held the Alberta branch annual meeting in the city last week, the payrolls, investment, finished products and everything in their line has grown steadily yearly.

New buildings are springing up in every portion of the city and all lines of business are making ready for what they think will be the biggest year in the commercial history of Edmonton.

The joint industries committee of the city council and board of trade reports many outsiders interested in the conditions in the city, and a vigorous awakening of the coal industry in practically assured in the new freight rate to Ontario.

Edmonton district wheat is still pouring through the Jasper yards for the coast at the rate of over 250 carloads daily besides the huge amount being taken out over the C.
P.R. for both east and west points and by the C.N.R. for the east. High priced cattle are still coming into the Edmonton stockyards from the north country and central points and the farmers who have just begun to collect their money for the biggest crop in the history of Alberta are crowding the Edmonton hotels and buying machinery, automobiles, lumber, clothing, radios and everything that goes to make farmwork easier and living on a farm more comfortable.

Every merchant and citizen of Edmonton should take deep breaths of this wonderful optimism and set out shoulder to shoulder to make this the grandest year ever experienced in Edmonton and the district.

Started Early

The Canadians commenced scoring early in the first period when Taylor, defence player, rushed through the Swiss ranks for a goal. Hugh Plaxton made it 2 to 0 before the first rest.

• The Grads opened up somewhat in the second period and ran in six rapid fire counters. At this juncture the Canadians showed the European spectators a flash of real hockey when they scored three of their six goals within the space of two minutes. One of them followed a snappy combination play by H. Plaxton and Trotter.

MARKETS, GRAIN, FINANCIAL

BULL TRADERS BOOST WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Feb. 20.—Bull traders again gained control of the Winnipeg grain market today, when prices advanced to a net gain of 4 to 1 1/2 for the day.

Several factors contributed to this advance, the chief of which was the confirmation of sales abroad over the weekend exceeding 1,000,000 bushels, mostly Canadian wheat.

Strong Liverpool cables played their part. The pool was settled with liberal sales on the exchange. Spreaders also were moderately active.

The grades of eye were in excellent demand, while cash oats found a fair inquiry at firm prices.
